Behind every great institution are its champions. The people who inspire, challenge, and, ultimately, empower an organization to reach higher. At Geisinger Health System, our greatest advocates are our remarkable donors, who have joined forces with us to achieve our goals for the second century. Because of them our shared vision is now within sight.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Friends of Geisinger,

When Abigail Geisinger envisioned the George F. Geisinger Memorial Hospital at the turn of the 20th century, she voiced a clear mandate: “Make my hospital right. Make it the best.” Our founder rightly believed the families of the region deserved no less.

Mrs. Geisinger’s legacy of philanthropy and vision of bringing the most advanced and innovative care to the people we serve lives on today in Geisinger Health System, one of the nation’s most respected integrated health services organizations.

Our size and scope may have changed, but some important pieces of our history and Mrs. Geisinger’s legacy remain true. We continue to emphasize the importance of the caregiver and patient relationship in the provision of quality healthcare, and we still depend on the generosity of individuals, families, foundations and corporations to help ensure we further our mission of healing, education, discovery and service.

In fact, donations continue to support our efforts to:

- Bring complex tertiary and quaternary care to local families who would otherwise have to leave the region to access such advanced medical services;
- Conduct translational research that directly and positively impacts the care we provide;
- Attract and retain the best and brightest physicians, scientists and other professionals;
- Educate medical students, nurses and other healthcare professionals; and
- Develop innovative models of care that benefit our patients as well as individuals across the country and around the globe.

As a trusted friend of Geisinger, you help make all of this possible. Indeed, your generosity continues the important tradition of philanthropy begun by Mrs. Geisinger and helps sustain her legacy. Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

PHILANTHROPIC HIGHLIGHTS

Donations from the community provide Geisinger Health System with the critical resources it requires to grow and deliver advanced quality healthcare. In the 2009-2010 fiscal cycle, charitable gifts to Geisinger totaled $7.4 million, from 10,745 donors.

ADVANCING PEDIATRIC CARE

TWO FAMILIES WHO'VE NEVER MET BUT SHARE A COMMON BOND: THE HEALING HANDS OF THE WOMEN AND MEN OF GEISINGER. FOR ASHLEY HEFFNER, LIFE WITH A CHRONIC DISEASE MEANS FREQUENT DOCTOR VISITS AND HOSPITALIZATIONS. THE SOJKAS, WHOSE SON, DIRK, REQUIRED SPECIALIZED CARE THROUGHOUT HIS LIFE, KNOW THAT LIFESTYLE VERY WELL.

Two things keep 16-year-old Ashley Heffner of Swoyersville going: finding a cure for muscular dystrophy and her healthcare team at Geisinger's Janet Weis Children's Hospital.

Ashley's indomitable spirit and winning personality made her a natural choice as Geisinger's Children's Miracle Network Kid and a Pennsylvania Muscular Dystrophy Association Ambassador. She's been part of the Geisinger family since birth, supported by a multidisciplinary team that regularly helps her manage the heart, lung, and movement challenges that come with her Emery-Dreifuss muscular dystrophy (MD). Since MD affects all parts of the body, she has connected over the years with virtually every Geisinger pediatric specialty and subspecialty.

"Having this disease is scary," says Ashley. "But I always feel safe with my Geisinger doctors. They work together, anticipate complications, and quickly resolve them. They help me cope."

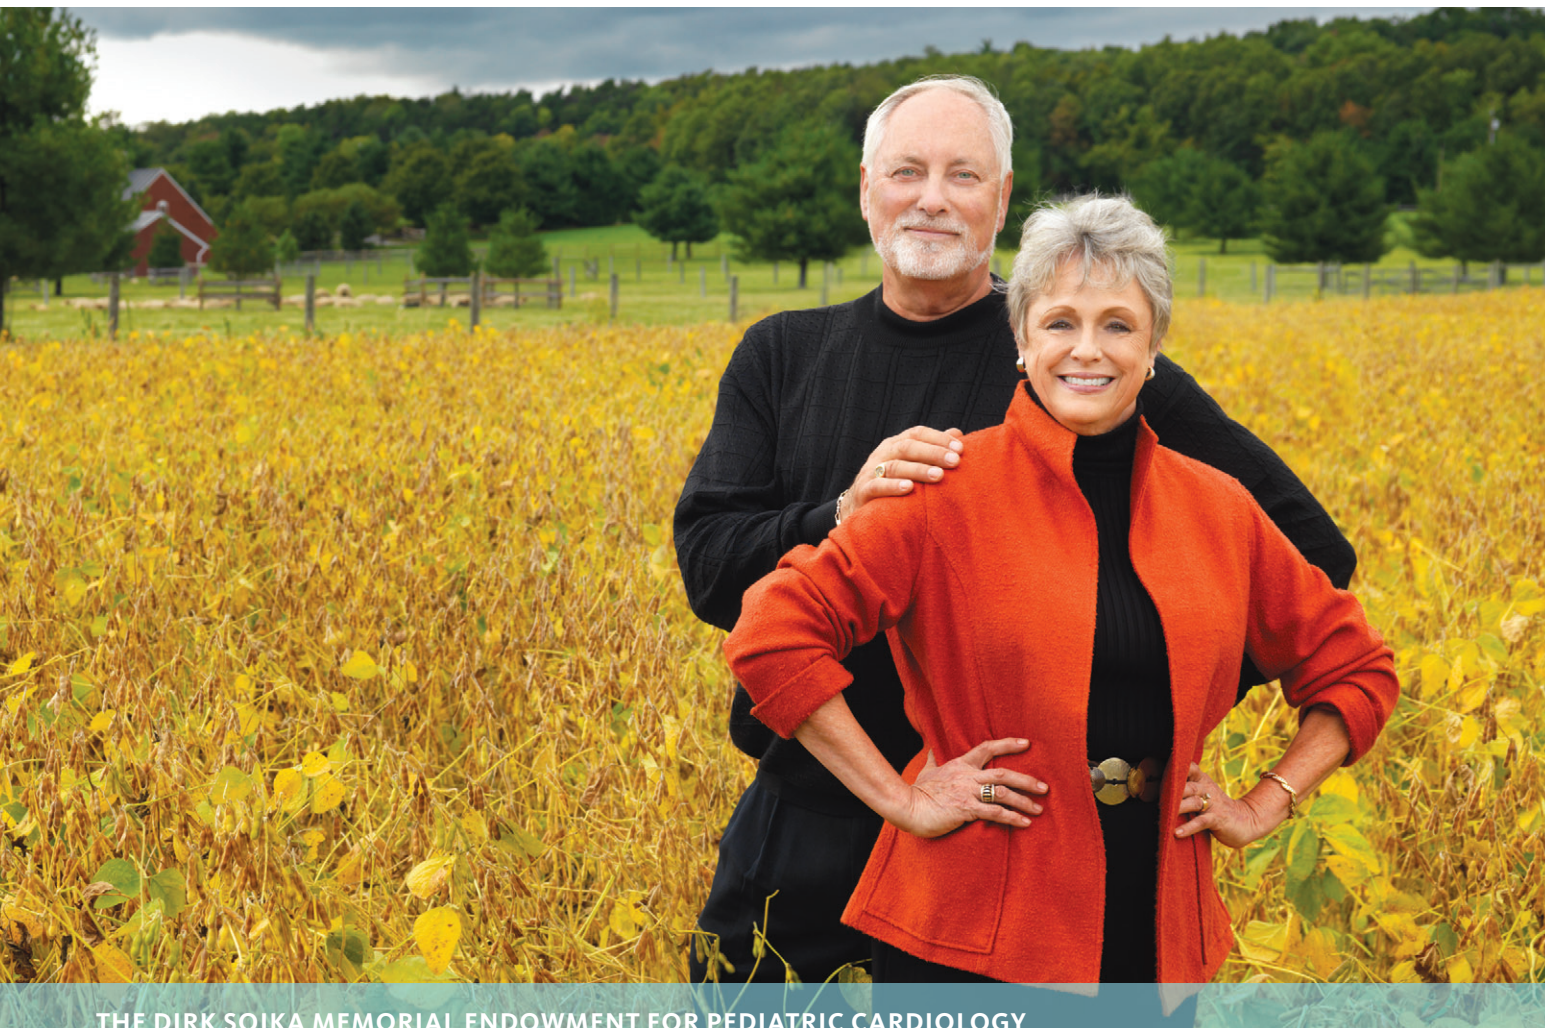

Ashley's grandmother, Donna Sutton, lost two children to MD – including Ashley's father. She knows well the disease's complexity. Now she is raising her granddaughter and says she trusts only Geisinger for Ashley's care. When she was born, it was Donna who insisted that she be transferred to Geisinger.

"'Ashley deserves a chance,' were the first words we heard from a Geisinger doctor," remembers Donna. "To this day, no one at Geisinger has retreated from that early pledge."

GEISINGER'S PEDIATRIC MEDICAL TEAM HAS BEEN A PART OF ASHLEY HEFFNER'S LIFE SINCE SHE WAS BORN.

THE DIRK SOJKA MEMORIAL ENDOWMENT FOR PEDIATRIC CARDIOLOGY

In 1984, when Indiana University Dean and geneticist Gary Sojka, Ph.D., was offered the presidency of Bucknell University, he nearly turned it down. He and his wife, Sandy, were afraid to uproot their 15-year-old son, Dirk, who suffered from Rubinstein-Taybi syndrome and needed expert medical care for the resulting serious heart problem and developmental disabilities. They worried that the excellent care their son was receiving wouldn't be available in rural Pennsylvania.

But careful research and consideration convinced the Sojkas that Geisinger Medical Center's (GMC) comprehensive programs would give Dirk the specialized care his complex condition required. They never regretted that decision.

With expert skill, the latest treatment advances, and deep sensitivity, Dirk's pediatric cardiologist, pediatric nurses and staff at GMC, helped Dirk through the challenges of multiple procedures and hospitalizations. He lived 18 more years, passing away at the age of 33 – time made possible by a young man's courage and a commitment to care.

"Even though Dirk is no longer with us, we continue to celebrate his life – and it is fitting that we do so with Geisinger," says Dr. Sojka. The Sojkas have established an endowment fund in Dirk's honor that supports pediatric cardiology.

ELEVATING CARDIAC SERVICES

ROY SMITH AND PAUL WASSEROTT ARE PIONEERS. ROY TRAVELS TO REMOTE PLACES IN SEARCH OF ADVENTURE AND PAUL PURSUED THE AMERICAN DREAM AS AN ENTREPRENEUR. TWO MEN WITH DIFFERENT PATHS AND DIFFERENT QUESTS. BUT THEIR LIFE JOURNEYS CONVERGED AT ONE LIFESAVING PROGRAM.

Today, Roy Smith of Bloomsburg travels alone for weeks at a time in East Africa concentrating on his great passion: exploring archeological digs. He no longer fears the heart attack that could have killed or crippled this successful businessman, motivational speaker and adventurer.

Thanks to an early diagnostic test he received at the Geisinger Heart Institute, a life-threatening blockage in one of his coronary arteries was detected. Within a week, a stent was placed in the artery to keep the blood vessel open and free of another blockage. Three weeks later he was climbing mountains again.

“At first I was apprehensive about undergoing a heart procedure, but Geisinger’s cardiac team put me at ease immediately,” recalls Roy. “The measure of an institution is determined by how you are treated. Geisinger has done a great job of picking the right people.”

With a 96 percent success rate opening blocked arteries, Geisinger’s interventional cardiology team is advancing the frontiers of heart care. Fractional flow reserve technology and intravascular ultrasound – which determine whether a patient needs a stent and where it should best be placed – have made Geisinger Medical Center a Thomson Reuters 100 Top Hospital for Cardiovascular Success.

“The doctors at Geisinger were terrific. They not only saved my life – they saved the kind of life I wanted to live,” concludes Roy.

NO JOURNEY IS TOO DIFFICULT FOR ROY SMITH FOLLOWING HIS CARDIAC SURGERY AT GEISINGER.

PAUL AND ELIZABETH WASSEROTT CHOOSE THE PEARSALL HEART HOSPITAL

Paul and Elizabeth Wasserott of Wilkes-Barre have supported local charities and community organizations for decades – they believe that with success comes civic responsibility. But Paul’s “insider” experience with the physicians, nurses, and staff at Geisinger led them to make an extraordinary lifetime $1.3 million gift to the hospital and a pledge to fund the second phase of the Richard & Marion Pearsall Heart Hospital at Geisinger Wyoming Valley Medical Center.

“I was born and raised in the medical supply business,” explains Paul, whose father started Wasserott, Ltd., in 1924. “There’s no doubt in my mind that Geisinger is head and shoulders above most hospitals. I place them in the same category as the top hospitals in the country.”

Paul and Elizabeth say their gifts to Geisinger are rooted in a desire to share their success with their Pennsylvania neighbors. Since selling the business in 2002, the Wasserotts spend time at homes in Pennsylvania, Florida, and Montana. But they will always be loyal patients of Geisinger’s physicians.

“Our hope is that our gifts can help patients with heart disease and other illnesses rebuild their lives,” says Paul. “We look forward to many years to come in our relationship with the health system and our Geisinger physicians.

DELIVERING CANCER ADVANCES

CANCER ALTERS EVERY LIFE IT TOUCHES. IT CHALLENGES; IT DEVASTATES. FOR PATIENTS AND FAMILIES ALIKE, NOTHING EVER IS THE SAME. FOR A YOUNG MOTHER LIKE KIM CZAPRACKI, A CANCER SURVIVOR, AND FOR DONNA CAPUTO, WHO LOST HER HUSBAND TO CANCER, THE CHALLENGE AND THE DEVASTATION BROUGHT UNEXPECTED JOYS.

Cancer survivor Kim Czapracki of Glen Lyon and her older sister, Lisa, led separate, even distant lives. But when Kim was diagnosed at age 43 with aggressive breast cancer, the two sisters united in a new found bond of strength and healing. Lisa made it her mission to help her younger sister get through surgery and then one year of treatment and chemotherapy at the Geisinger Cancer Institute.

“When I was scared, Lisa took my fears and turned them all around for me,” marvels Kim. “When I reached points where I felt I couldn’t go forward, she reminded me of the importance of faith in healing. My breast cancer brought us back together.”

Innovative cancer services and compassionate cancer specialists at Geisinger Wyoming Valley’s Frank & Dorothea Henry Cancer Center also eased Kim’s journey. Especially precious was the center’s breast cancer nurse navigator who coordinated and oversaw all of Kim’s care.

“Her phone number was the only one I needed,” says Kim. “She became my trusted friend, and the staff became my family. It sounds strange, the whole cancer experience improved my life and my relationships.”

KIM CZAPRACKI'S BREAST CANCER BROUGHT HER A DEEPER CONNECTION WITH HER SISTER.

THE CAPUTO FAMILY IS COMMITTED TO CANCER CARE

When cancer suddenly claimed the life of 57-year old Mike Caputo, his wife, Donna, and their children knew just how to honor his memory. They turned to the inspiration of Mike's history of generosity for direction.

For more than 30 years, Mike and Donna Caputo of Clifford supported Geisinger Health System.

"Mike was so passionate about children and Geisinger," says Donna. "In 1994, he set up a matching grant to create camps for children with special medical needs. He called it Camp Jelly Beans."

Today, Mike's commitment to Geisinger lives on under Donna's careful stewardship. But now, she says, there is a new focus that her husband would have liked.

"The doctors, nurses, and staff at Geisinger's Frank & Dorothea Henry Cancer Center were our salvation during his brief illness," Donna recalls. "We couldn't have made it through without them and the palliative care."

To be sure that all families have access to the excellent care Mike and she received, Donna now dedicates a significant portion of her annual giving to the Henry Cancer Center.

"Somehow life goes on after you lose a loved one," adds Donna. "Through our family foundation, so too does Mike's vision of giving for others."

FUELING RESEARCH INITIATIVES

ALTHOUGH FREDERICK BUGHER AND PAUL A. O'HOP LIVED IN DIFFERENT TIMES, THEY SHARED A COMMON FATE: CARDIAC DISEASE. IN THE LATE 1970s, FREDERICK ESTABLISHED A FOUNDATION TO FUND CARDIAC RESEARCH. TODAY, PAUL IS ONE OF MANY TO BENEFIT FROM THAT RESEARCH.

Paul A. O'Hop of Moscow, is no stranger to the terrible toll of cardiac disease. He lost five of his 12 siblings to the illness.

"Many years ago, two of my brothers died during or as a result of their bypass surgeries," says Paul, a retired vice president of Wilkes University. "Thankfully much has changed in cardiac procedures since then."

The Richard & Marion Pearsall Heart Hospital, the region's only dedicated heart hospital, is ranked among the top programs in the nation for coronary artery bypass grafts (CABG).

"When I learned I needed bypass surgery in 2010, I knew where to go," says Paul, who was 71 when he had his CABG at the Pearsall Heart Hospital.

Geisinger's ProvenCare® program has made CABG safer and more effective in extending patients' lives. The innovative protocol, developed by 43 Geisinger heart experts, created 40 critical steps that improve a patient's chances for a successful bypass surgery and recovery.

"I have one brother left," says Paul. "And he, too, had bypass surgery at the Pearsall Heart Hospital. We both owe our lives to the advanced care we received there."

PAUL A. O'HOP HAD BYPASS SURGERY IN JANUARY AT THE PEARSALL HEART HOSPITAL.

THE HENRIETTA B. & FREDERICK H. BUGHER FOUNDATION

More than 25 years ago, a $500,000 challenge grant from the Henrietta B. & Frederick H. Bugher Foundation helped Geisinger build a world-class facility for the Sigfried and Janet Weis Center for Research and to recruit noted scientists to conduct research there.

The Bugher Foundation is dedicated solely to funding cardiovascular research. It was established by Frederick Bugher, in honor of his parents, both of whom succumbed to heart disease.

Today, Frederick's vision lives on at the Weis Center for Research, where Bugher-funded basic and translational research has yielded new insight into cardiovascular biology and molecular and cellular mechanisms. A $500,000 pledge in 2007 from the Foundation supports cutting-edge studies on the molecular basis of cardiovascular disease, heart failure, congenital heart problems, and related issues.

"Our foundation is focused on providing the critical seed money for this kind of innovation, according to Daniel N. Adams, one of five Bugher Foundation trustees.

"We dedicate ourselves to the mission Fred Bugher laid out for us in establishing the Bugher Foundation," says Mr. Adams. "Our mission is to stimulate the kind of research that can save millions of lives from the devastation of this pervasive disease. We are proud to support Geisinger, whose advanced research may hold the clues to eliminating heart disease."

TREATING ADDICTION SKILLFULLY

ALCOHOLISM AND CHEMICAL DEPENDENCY ARE PERVASIVE IN OUR SOCIETY – AND ONE OF THE MOST DIFFICULT TO TACKLE, REQUIRING TREATMENT TAILORED TO THE PATIENT. THAT WAS THE PAINFUL TRUTH THAT THE MARCON FAMILY CONFRONTED AND CONQUERED WITH THE HELP OF A TEAM OF PROFESSIONALS AND OTHER FAMILIES LIKE THEM.

For Leah (Marcon) Baginski of Fishkill, N.Y., the proverbial rock bottom came seven years after her first rehabilitation at Marworth, Geisinger's nationally recognized alcohol and chemical dependency treatment center. Her mother, Pam, discovered Leah, then a young mother, using drugs in her living room.

"It is painful for me to remember the hurt that my addiction caused my mother and father, and ultimately, my little boy, Peyton," says Leah. She missed Christmas and her son's birthday while she was at Marworth for 30 days in 2008. "But I wouldn't be alive today if it weren't for my entire family, who came into my recovery with me."

While at Marworth, Leah learned how to live an independent life, free from alcohol and drugs. Her family received ongoing support and counseling. Two years later, Leah is a healthy, devoted mother to Peyton and works at a job she loves. She attends meetings regularly, which she says keeps her strong and sober.

"Marworth gave me a suitcase full of tools to use to stay sober, and I carry that suitcase with me wherever I go," concludes Leah. "It has been a long awakening, but my mom and dad and Marworth helped me to turn my life around."

WITH THE SUPPORT OF FAMILY AND MARWORTH STAFF, LEAH BAGINSKI IS LIVING LIFE CLEAN AND SOBER.

THE MARCONS SUPPORT MARWORTH'S EXPANSION

For Ray and Pam Marcon of State College, learning about the dynamics of dependency from the experts at Marworth was a major breakthrough in their family's recovery and reunification.

The Marcons' family life was typical. There was no history of alcoholism, and, like many parents, they attributed their daughter's behavior to the pressures of young adulthood.

"We had no idea where this was coming from," says Ray. "We immediately blamed ourselves."

But Marworth gave Pam and Ray the skills they needed to deal with Leah's addiction.

"The family program put us in touch with others in the same situation and taught us that it's not just about the patient's recovery, but about the family's recovery as well," says Pam.

The program's family component led the Marcons to make a personal pledge to support the expansion and renovation of the Marworth counseling wing. A corporate pledge commitment from Ray's business is supporting Geisinger's general fund.

"We are taking our experience and turning it into a positive by helping other families to heal," says Pam.

And Ray sums it up: "We are incredibly thankful for the expert help from the Marworth staff. We couldn't have completed this journey without them."

CHILDREN'S MIRACLE NETWORK AT THE JANET WEIS CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

Each spring, Bernard Bredbenner, Jr., of Williamsport, revs up his motorcycle and heads out on the highway, setting up a route for 2,500 fellow motorcyclists on a 75-mile scenic tour through Central Pennsylvania. Their mission: to raise money to save the precious lives of sick and injured babies and children at the Janet Weis Children's Hospital.

Fueled by gratitude to the hospital that saved Carrie, his two-pound daughter born 13 weeks prematurely in 1980, Bernie began organizing the inaugural motorcycle ride in 1985, only to be devastated by the loss of his prematurely born son, Gordon. Despite extraordinary care, Gordon died, just two weeks before the first motorcycle ride was scheduled.

"He'll get it done, no matter what," Bernie's friends said. And he did, working through his grief and raising $7,400 that first year. Each year since then, the Children's Miracle Network motorcycle ride has roared ahead. In 2010, it raised a remarkable $45,000.

"The only way for me to say thank you for saving my Carrie, now healthy and 30 years old, is to organize the ride every year," says Bernie.

"The people on the frontlines, giving their all to ensure that children in our area have the medical services they need, are the real heroes," he says.

THE ALICE E. STEELE NURSING EDUCATION ENDOWMENT

Hospitals that offer advanced educational opportunities to their nurses have ever-decreasing rates of hospital-acquired infections, injuries, medication errors, and related complications.

“In today’s fast-paced, complex medical environment it takes more than passion to be an excellent nurse – it takes continuous professional improvement,” says Susan M. Hallick, RN, MSN, MHA, NEA-BC, Executive Vice President and System Chief Nursing Officer.

Geisinger nurses who wish to further their education but who cannot afford it can turn to the Alice E. Steele Nursing Education Endowment. The endowment helps to offset tuition costs for nurses.

“We believe so strongly in the endowment’s potential that many of our nurses contribute to the fund,” says Ms. Hallick.

To a nurse, the Steele Endowment might mean achieving an advanced degree or keeping up with new procedures. In the end, for every nurse who strives to be better at his or her job, there are countless patients who benefit.

THE SIGFRIED AND JANET WEIS CENTER FOR RESEARCH AND GEISINGER CLINICAL GENOMICS CORE

Gene mapping. Microarray expression profiling. Biobanking. Genetic variants. While these terms may sound alien to the average person, for scientists at Geisinger, they represent sophisticated tools that may one day save countless lives.

The Sigfried and Janet Weis Center for Research and Geisinger Clinical Genomics Core (GCGC) are actively studying the relationship between genes and disease.

“Genomics is medicine’s newest frontier,” says David Carey, Ph.D., Director of the Weis Center for Research.

Genomics research at the Weis Center relies on the resources of the GCGC. The GCGC collects, analyzes, and stores the blood, DNA, and tissue samples needed for research.

Glenn S. Gerhard, M.D., Director of the GCGC, says, “As a hospital-based research facility we have extraordinary resources for large scale studies.”

While the Weis Center and GCGC conduct research on a molecular level in the laboratory, the Center for Clinical Studies and the Center for Health Research, both housed in the Henry Hood Center for Health Research, bring research advancements to patients.

“Geisinger is an incubator for tomorrow’s discoveries,” says Dr. Carey. “Our researchers are passionate about making a difference.”

THE HOSPITAL FOR ADVANCED MEDICINE AT GEISINGER MEDICAL CENTER

When it came to building Geisinger's Hospital for Advanced Medicine (HfAM), Geisinger looked to the future, and on February 9, 2010, the doors of that future opened.

Rising nine stories and encompassing 308,000 square feet, the environmentally friendly HfAM is home to the Heart & Vascular Institute, physician offices, and modern surgical suites and inpatient units. The building optimizes patient care using new healthcare delivery models, including acuity-adaptable inpatient care.

The 30-bed acuity-adaptable inpatient unit is the latest innovation in patient care. Throughout a patient's stay, he or she is cared for by the same team in the same room. Since the room adjusts to patient healing levels, they do not have to move from room to room. The results are shorter hospital stays, increased patient safety, and reduced risks of medical errors.

Another component, a new Electronic Intensive Care Unit (eICU) program, allows additional, continuous monitoring of the most critically ill patients by physicians and nurses at a control station in an adjacent building.

By bringing together all aspects of inpatient and outpatient cardiovascular care in one ultra-modern facility, the HfAM is redefining the delivery of comprehensive medicine.

JANET C. WEIS

HEALTHCARE CHAMPION AND BENEFACTOR

Janet C. Weis, the namesake of Geisinger Medical Center's Janet Weis Children's Hospital, passed away on January 3, 2011. Mrs. Weis was the widow of the late Sigfried Weis, Weis Markets Chairman and Geisinger Foundation Board Chairman Emeritus.

"The region has lost one of its true champions with the passing of Janet Weis. Over the years, her philanthropic support and personal involvement have advanced healthcare for children and provided the means for medical research, in addition to many other worthy causes," said Glenn D. Steele Jr., MD, PhD, President and CEO of Geisinger Health System.

It was 1992 when the generosity of Mrs. Weis and her husband, Sigfried, led to the ground-breaking and 1994 grand opening of the now nationally known children's hospital. But Mrs. Weis' influence at Geisinger extends further than the Janet Weis Children's Hospital.

In the early 1980s, Mr. and Mrs. Weis sponsored a formal research program in an effort to bring the finest scientific minds in the country to Geisinger. Their efforts led to the Sigfried and Janet Weis Center for Research, which was dedicated in 1987 in their honor.

In her lifetime, Janet Weis and her late husband Sigfried provided Geisinger with philanthropic support totaling nearly $34 million.

Though the Geisinger family mourns the loss of such a dynamic woman, her legacy endures with the efforts undertaken every single day at Geisinger.
