

THE SARKIS AND SIRAN GABRELLIAN WOMEN'S AND CHILDREN'S PAVILION: PROTECTING OUR MOST PRECIOUS NATURAL RESOURCES

ONE OF ONLY 10 HOSPITALS
IN THE NATION TO BE NAMED A
"TOP GREEN HOSPITAL"

When patients come to The Sarkis and Siran Gabrellian Women's and Children's Pavilion at Hackensack University Medical Center, they can expect state-of-the-art quality medical care. Now, they can count on being in one of America's Top Green Hospitals. Where the health and well-being of our most precious natural resource – women and children – just reached a new level.

Of the nearly 1,300 hospitals in the country striving to be green, The Pavilion is one of only 10 to be named a Top Green Hospital by The Green Guide, an independent media service for consumers. To make this winning list, Hackensack University Medical Center went above and beyond when building The Pavilion – it voluntarily constructed a building that protects people from "sick building syndrome," the harmful chemicals generated from new construction, and everyday hospital practices that potentially make people ill.

For patients, visitors, and staff that means cleaner indoor air and safer drinking water. Non-toxic cleaning products. Organic meals. Green cotton linens. It means mercury-free medical devices. High efficiency energy systems. Energy savings initiatives. And toys that are free of PVCs and formaldehyde. As one of the Top 10 Green Hospitals in America, The Pavilion is a national environmental pioneer. But to you it just means we're doing our best job as responsible healthcare providers – we're creating a much healthier healing environment for our most precious resources – our patients, staff, and visitors.

Spearheaded by The Deirdre Imus Environmental Center for Pediatric Oncology®, The Pavilion is truly one of the nation's few "environmentally responsible and sustainable healthcare facilities."
